LAC LA BICHE SEA CADETS TO HAVE ANNUAL INSPECTION

LAC LA BICHE—The annual inspection of the Lac la Biche Sea Cadets will be held this year on Thursday, May 22, at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Hall. The Exeter, training ship of the corps which made the trip to the British Isles last year, has now been refitted and is already in commission again and will take part in the inspection manoeuvres.

The inspection will be carried out by Commander G. Manning, commanding officer of HMCS Nonsuch, Edmonton, assisted by Lt. Cdr. S. G. Coombs, area officer, other naval personnel and members of the Edmonton branch of the Navy League of Canada.

At the conclusion of the inspection the film taken overseas during the trip last year will be shown.

The public is cordially invited to be present, particularly those who helped to make the cruise the success it was, to see this film and to have the cruise of the local sea cadets explained to them in detail. There is no charge of any kind and the officers and cadets would like to see a good representation of the people of Lac la Biche and district present for this annual event.

Lobay Wins Nomination At Lac La Biche

LAC LA BICHE—165 accredited delegates assembled on May 19 and nominated Harry Lobay by a large majority over the other candidate Elmer Plamondon. This was the largest attendance ever recorded in these parts. Hon. Lucien Maynard and Mr. Jorganson were in attendance. The meeting voted the support unanimous after results were announced.

DISTRICT RESIDENT SINCE 1913 DIES AT NINETY-THREE YEARS

PLAMONDON — One of the earliest and friendliest of Plamondon pioneers passed away at the home of her son, Arthur Dube of Plamondon. Mrs. Marceline Dube, wife of the late Arthur Dube Sr. was born in Ile Veil P.Q. and previous to her marriage was Marceline Coe.

Mrs. Dube, with her husband and children came to Canada from Harrisville, Michigan, U.S.A. in 1913 to settle in Plamondon where she has resided ever since.

Her husband predeceased her in June 1942. All who knew her, loved her and her passing will leave a happy memory of her pioneering spirit and of her leadership in this community in its early days when Plamondon was but a tiny Hamlet with its covered wagons and the horse and buggy days. Her late husband was His Majesty's mail carrier for many years.

She leaves to mourn her loss four sons and one daughter living, Joseph and John of Flint, Mich., Mrs. C. Noonan of Hollywood, California, Ernest and Arthur of Plamondon, Alberta; 16 grandchildren, 35 great grandchildren, and three of her children died at an early age.

Funeral services were held from the St. Isadore's Parish church. Rev. Fr. Ricard officiated and she was laid to rest in the Plamondon cemetery.

Deepest sympathy is extended to all her family from the residents of this district.

SHOWN ABOVE is Cpl. Kenneth Landsman, formerly of Highvale who recently received his second stripe to celebrate his 21st birthday on April 22. He is now serving his third year in the army at Camp Borden, Ont.

Bank Says Federal Budget Points Out Realism, But Leaves Frustration

MONTREAL—The recent federal budget reflects both realism and frustration, as this month's Bank of Montreal Business Review sees it. While it placed squarely before both public and legislators some "home truths" about the cost of defence, welfare and administration and provided for meeting these costs wholly out of revenue, it offers little in the way of tax remission for the present and held out "very slim hopes of any significant easing" in the foreseeable future. The bank also emphasizes the steepness of corporate taxes and calls for a government lead to the public in the matter of savings.

Of the surplus recorded in the year just closed, the B of M analysis comments that, "had it been produced at a rather lower level of expenditure, and therefore of taxation, it would probably have met with general approval. Indeed, the Canadian government's avoidance of deficit financing since the end of the war has commanded widespread public support at home and no little admiration abroad. But the magnitude of the federal budget and the high rates of taxation now needed to finance it naturally raise the question whether a substantial surplus, even achieved by accident, was not an overly expensive exercise in fiscal virtue."

The B of M adds that, though a surplus may be defended as anti-inflationary, high taxation is itself an influence on the inflationary side of the ledger, being reflected in living costs and giving rise to compensatory pay increases. Further, mounting revenues, provided at the taxpayer's expense, "may tend to dull the edge of governmental economy."

PRICE STABILITY NOT FOREGONE CONCLUSION

Remarking on the prediction of the Minister of Finance that, for 1952, the general price level will be, at most, two per cent higher than last year and may show virtually no change, the bank warns that it is not a "foregone conclusion". Inflationary and deflationary influences are now delicately balanced, but "there are a number of pressures which, in combination, could conceivably tip the scale on the inflationary side."

Again quoting from the budget speech, the review remarks on the significance of the Minister of Finance's frankly expressed concern that "conditions make it necessary to maintain in our tax structure rates as high as this on business profits . . . excessive rates of tax on corporate incomes. If long maintained, can do grave damage to the economy as a whole."

NEED SEEN FOR MORE GOVERNMENT SAVING

While agreeing with the Minister of Finance's statement that "the main problem of controlling total expenditure lies . . . in exercising restraint upon the constant demands for additional government services," the B of M emphasizes that demands for expanding such services "do not by any means originate entirely outside of legislative halls." More often than not, programs of expenditure are "presented" by the government to the public, with no great emphasis on the implications in terms of cost.

In addition, "while administrative costs may not seem much in relation to the over-all budget, they are large enough to demand continuing and careful control," the review maintains. Nor should defence outlays, while imperative, be for that reason exempt from scrutiny to ensure value for money spent. "A public enjoined to practise the virtues of saving and thrift has a right to be assured that the government itself is showing the way in this respect."

More than 1,700 blind Canadians are employed full time in industry and commerce.

Nifty-Nippers Have Achievement Day

PEAMONDON — At 8:30 p.m. on May 13 the nifty-Nippers' sewing Club held their achievement day, bringing to a close their sewing club activities for the year. A display of first, second and third year sewing was shown.

A fashion parade of the dresses and garments made by the girls were very well modelled by the girls themselves.

Miss Andreasson, Home Economist for this district and Miss Elders of the Agricultural School attended and judged the garments. Many prizes were awarded to the girls for their work. Miss Andreassen spoke a few words of advice to the girls, and congratulated them on their work.

Miss Elders gave a summary of short courses being offered by the Dept. that the girls could attend.

A concert was given by the girls themselves which was very much enjoyed. A vote of thanks was extended by the club to their leader, Mrs. C. J. Sommerville.

GOOD PLOWING-

Here's a speedy plowing combination—the No. 8 Plow pulled by Farmall-M.

with No. 8 PLOWS

The McCormick-Deering No. 8 has long been the yardstick for measuring the best in plow performance. These Plows can be depended upon to turn good furrows in all kinds of going. Their rugged construction and proved design withstands the strains of plowing behind modern, fast-moving tractors. Ample clearance under beams and between bottoms assures a thorough job of turning and covering heavy growths of stalks, weeds and green cover crops. Easy to adjust — easy to handle in any field — the No. 8 Plows do the kind of work particular plowmen like.

Come in and see the line of McCormick-Deering Plows in our store. We have them in sizes to fit all types of farms, soils and power.

Let us show you how good baled hay can be

The best way to judge hay quality is to examine it in the barn this time of year. Here are some things you will notice about rolled bales:

- 1 The hay is bright and green — just like it was baled.
- 2 Leaves are sealed inside the bale — almost no leaf loss during handling.
- 3 Bales that have been rained on are still good — they shed the showers.
- 4 Rolled bales handle without waste — won't buckle, break or fall apart.
- 5 Rolled bales are easy to feed — rolled out, cut open or fed whole.

Let us show you why hay in rolled bales is winning blue ribbons for quality at leading shows. Your livestock needs the best.

HARMONY HOUSE WILL PROMOTE HOME TALENT

By A. V. BOUCHIER

We hear a great deal about Alberta's fabulous mineral wealth nowadays, and the millions of dollars being invested to develop that wealth—the many new industries that are being established as a result. Harmony House, however, is investing in one of Alberta's finest resources—one that is too often overlooked—the musical talent of her people. Harmony House believes that there is talent second to none in Edmonton and in the province of Alberta and that much of that talent is as yet undeveloped.

A year ago Harmony House established a modern sound-proof Recording Studio equipped with up-to-date recording equipment, and has since done every kind of recording.

What do people record? That is a question often asked. It is the experience of Harmony House that people are interested in recording almost every sound you can think of. They have recorded dogs, parrots, budgie birds, the sound of a screeching hinge, laughing records and sound effects of every description.

They have recorded the human voice all the way from the baby cooing to grandmother sending her greetings to England.

The recording of weddings has now become very popular and Harmony House is engaged by many young couples who record the ceremony. There is always a certain amount of hilarious conjecture on the part of relatives as to the use which will be made of the recording by the bride or groom in later years.

There is of course, more recording done in the field of music than in any other field of sound. Concerts, orchestras, singers, tap-dancers and those who play instruments of every kind, all require the services of Harmony House.

In the business world, recording is used for advertising, public speaking, sales talks and conferences. In education it is used extensively for oral education and self-improvement. Speakers, singers and musicians quickly detect and correct their faults when they hear themselves on a record.

Talent can be discovered more readily by means of recording than by any other method and since we live in an age of "canned music" there are unlimited opportunities for the talented singer or musician in the field of commercial records.

It is the aim of Harmony House to discover that talent, assist, advise and promote those who seek a career in the musical world.

Any Regrets, Edmonton?

Last week it was announced in the EDMONTON SUN that a $15,000,000 "Shoppersville" Shopping Centre is to be built in the Municipal District of Sturgeon, half-mile north of the City limits on the Namao road.

We couldn't help thinking of the Detweiler plan that was defeated 18 months ago, when Edmonton taxpayer-electors turned down the offer of a group of New York financiers to build a $100,000,000 "Miracle Mile" shopping centre in downtown Edmonton.

That proposition was defeated by the large Edmonton department stores, the Edmonton Journal and 40% of those who voted. A majority vote in favour of at least 66 2-3% was required and barely more than 60% favourable vote was registered.

Much as the reactionary elements in the City would like to turn back the progress clock, it can't really be done. The Edmonton district will have its "Miracle Mile" shopping districts, but they will be built, as this one is to be built, outside the city limits.

This will be a boon to the farmer-shoppers of the Edmonton district who will be able to drive their cars and trucks to a modern shopping centre where they will be encouraged to park freely, without difficulty, and without parking meter taxes or fines.

We wonder if the citizens of Edmonton will have any regrets.

Tunnel Link

The Library of Congress recently disclosed that Russia had once seriously considered a scheme to link Siberia and Alaska through the construction of a fifty-six mile tunnel under the Bering Sea. There is some indication that the idea has not been completely abandoned in Russia, and, as late as 1946, Radio Moscow hinted that some sort of link in that area might be advisable.

The original Bering Sea tunnel project was an American idea, which Czar Nicholas II looked favorably upon. The trans-Alaska-Siberian Company, a firm made up mostly of Americans, was to build the tunnel in exchange for rights along a 3,000-mile railroad through Siberia to prospect for gold. These rights gave the company a strip of land eight miles wide along the railroad in their search for gold.

Far-fetched as the idea may seem, it is not improbable that one of these days Alaska and the Soviet Union will be linked by some sort of tunnel or other arrangement. As Alaska steadily builds and Siberia is developed on the other side of the sea, the link will become increasingly more desirable from the standpoint of inter-continental trade. If sufficient roads are ever constructed in Siberia, such a connection would allow Alaskan, Canadian and Northwestern States residents to drive to Russia, China, Korea and even all the way to India and the Middle East or straight through to Europe without having to ever board a ship.

Ask Machinery Probe

A federal inquiry into causes of high prices of farm machinery was urged recently in the house of commons by M. J. Coldwell. He said that conclusions of a parliamentary committee on farm machinery prices in 1937 coincided with those of this year's Saskatchewan legislative committee in that implement prices were out of line with returns received by farmers for their produce.

Four large implement companies failed to provide the Saskatchewan committee with necessary information to carry out its enquiry, but that this did not prevent obtaining evidence which clearly indicated high prices and resulting high profits in the industry, said Mr. Coldwell. A provincial legislature, he said, cannot ascertain whether a combine is in existence or whether a combine did exist.

How To Kill

By JACK SCOTT

Murder mysteries are intriguing and probably account for the staggering sale of detective story magazines, but I am obsessed by a more macabre aspect of the fine art of murder. Like the fisherman who broods over the big one that got away, I am more interested in the killers still at large.

The sobering fact is that we have no way of knowing the true statistics on homicide, no way of knowing how many murderers are walking the streets as free men, no way of knowing what they did with the bodies.

The crimes of passion, the spur-of-the-moment killings induced largely by alcohol or jealousy are almost always detected, but there is no way of knowing how many cunning, cold-blooded, pre-meditated slayings have been committed successfully.

We cannot know of the perfect crimes.

* * * *

You might suppose that murder is the most difficult of all crimes to get away with. Not at all.

A certain detective friend of mine whose whole adult life has been spent sniffing down the gory trails of violent deaths, once claimed that he could successfully handle a round dozen murders himself, murders without a trace, yet each demanding an original technique in the act and the disposing of the cadaver.

Ever hear of the Missing Person Bureau? Each major city has lists as long as your arm. Where are those people? Well, most of them have strayed and become lost in the crowd of the world. But how many lie bludgeoned in some lonely woods? Or weighted at the bottom of the river? Or grey ashes in a furnace grate?

Most good detectives think along such lines, mainly because they've all seen so many "natural" deaths that were strongly suspicious.

* * * *

The law itself is, in a sense, on the side of the murderer. Few laymen realize the amount of evidence it takes to convict a man of homicide.

Time after time the authorities will survey the evidence, often knowing in their hearts that they are dealing with an authentic criminal case, but will decide that the element of so-called "reasonable doubt" makes it inadvisable to press a charge. To an Attorney-General only admissible fact is important.

The law holds that a man is innocent until proven guilty and hard proof is often mighty tenuous.

Consider, for example, the apparent suicides, the jumps off the end of boats, the gas turned on, the leap from tall buildings. In case after case the murderer, if such there was could have been the only witness.

It is claimed that even the heart attack may be brought on by a methodical use of certain drugs over a long period.

* * * *

It might be argued that the missing link in this kind of speculation is that few people have a motive for murder.

There are, however, a good many. Financially, there are the insurance and inheritance aspects, the kind of thing that caused little Alfred Guay to smuggle a bomb aboard that airliner. Emotionally there are jealousy, hatred, euthanasia.

Some professional criminologists take the view that there's a little murder in the best of us, especially in a post war period when killing may seem relatively less important and when a good many neuroses are in full flower.

It is worth considering, too, that murder may be a hobby. I remember discussing this morbid subject with my detective friend.

* * * *

"A modern Bluebeard?" he asked. "Why not?" Maybe your neighbor is one. Maybe you passed one on the street today. You see, we presume there is innocence behind an innocent face. We are unwilling to speak of evil of our fellow men, yet in all the animal world there's none quite so evil as the human."

Note and Comment

The Power of the (Weekly) Press! George Renouf, veteran member for Swan River—speaking in the Manitoba Legislature—told how he gained admission to a political meeting in London during a visit to the Old Country last fall.

When he arrived the hall was packed. Said doorkeepers: "Nobody admitted now, except members of the Press." Declared George stoutly: "Well, I'm from Canada, and I represent the Canadian Press." Doorkeeper: "What paper?" George: "Swan River Star and Times."

Apparently that was Open Sesame—George said it got him the "best seat in the house." (But Editor Harry Munro of Swan River Star & Times complains that reporter Renouf hasn't yet turned in his coverage of that meeting).

One In 23: An Intolerable Record

(From the Calgary Herald)

The Alberta government has finally admitted that it wasted the taxpayers' money in 1947 when it called into being the Royal Commission on Child Welfare.

That commission, which set for more than a year hearing the most damning evidence against the standards of welfare service in this province, made 23 specific recommendations for the improvement of welfare policies. Health and Welfare Minister Dr. Cross has now stated that only one of these recommendations has been implemented in the three years since the report was issued.

This statement is certainly clear. Yet it conflicts with the honorable minister's previous statements. Last year at this time, when the Opposition was attempting to get a frank answer to the same question, Dr. Cross reported that "some (recommendations) were in effect, some were put into effect thereafter and some weren't adopted and won't be because the welfare experts did not consider they were to the benefit of the people of the province." What the minister was trying to get across, apparently, was that "some" really means "one."

Dr. Cross also managed to throw new light on the purpose of the child welfare commission. He told the Opposition that the purpose of the report was to find out whether statements made by a certain person were true. Perhaps the three judges on that commission were in error therefore when they detailed in their report that "the purposes of our inquiry" were to investigate certain charges, allegations, and reports relating to the child welfare branch, to investigate "any other" specific charges" against the branch brought before the commission, and "to report . . . as to whether the policies followed by the child welfare commission were in the best interests of the children and other citizens . . . and, if not, to make such recommendations as the commissioners may in their discretion consider proper."

That those policies were not in the best interests of this province, the list of recommendations made abundantly clear to everyone but the Alberta government. Only one proposal, apparently, was "worthwhile."

The cross-border placement of children will continue. Family case work, recognized by all other social workers as sound, will continue to be ignored in Alberta. Public representation on the child welfare commission will not be permitted. Careful inquiry into foster homes and curtailment of "work" homes will not be encouraged. Girls, not found to be delinquent by the courts, may still be committed to correctional institutions. The superintendent of the child welfare branch may still commit children to places of confinement other than a detention home without court hearing. In other words, the handling of child welfare will remain in the poor state it was found to be in three years ago.

How long will arrogance and negligence continue unchecked?

Voice of the People

IMPASSABLE ROADS

I wonder if you are aware of the appalling condition of some of our municipal roads. I am speaking specifically of two of our roads in the district of Belmont, just two miles outside of the city of Edmonton.

Perhaps you would be interested to learn that for a whole week, water was pouring over them in four or five different places. One spot in particular the water is some two to three feet deep for a distance of 30 or 40 yards.

Needless to say, this is a grave inconvenience to those people of this district who are forced to use the roads regardless of conditions. I know of several incidents of people whose cars stalled half-way through due, of course, to wet wiring. One instance, a friend of ours, his wife and his three children sat in the middle of this stream and waited for their distributor to dry, while the water streamed in under the doors.

The other road I speak of has four different streams going across, if they are not nearly as wide nor deep.

All this, of course, is due to the fact that these roads have never been lifted and the ditches have never been cleaned properly. Some years ago the people of this district drew up a petition which the majority of taxpayers signed. This petition demanded the attention of the authorities for the building of these two roads. What happened to this petition I cannot say, but I do know that it was delivered to the powers in effect at that time. At any rate, there was nothing done to our roads.

I personally has been promised that our roads would be attended to, but with no results. Even in the summer these roads are rough and terrible due to the amount of traffic they carry as there is a gravel pit at the end of one of them.

To top it all off, our own premier has a farm at the extreme end of this trail, and still we get no attention. Really, that is the pay-off I will never understand.

Thank you for taking the time to read this. Perhaps the next time you are asked to print an article about the glory of our Alberta roads you will do so with your tongue in your cheek.

F. P. ENGELS.

NEIGHBORS

I think when God made neighbors, He was glad because He knew The joy there is in sitting down To chat with friends—don't you?

Skies somehow never loom as grey.

Our joys are deeper—shared. 'Twas easier far to bear a pair

When someone said she cared, To do a patch of mending

Or to sew a waiting hem— Even just to dream away an hour

With a neighbor now and then, Makes us glow with love of living

Right within our acre here, For to know we all are neighbors

Brings a bit of heaven near.

—A. Smyth.

SUNDAY ROAD WORK

On Easter Sunday, when the world was celebrating one of the greatest festivals of the year, our Lord's resurrection from the dead, a local farmer was out with the tractor dragging the road east of George Kozicar's. What does our Lord's Commandment, "Remember thou keep holy the Sabbath Day," mean to him? Did he donate this public service gratis? A service which could have been performed the day before or the day after, or will he submit his bill to the municipal office for payment?

EGG FOLDOVERS

Six hard-cooked eggs, chopped
One medium stalk celery, chopped
One small onion, minced
One slice pimiento, minced
Two sprigs parsley, minced
One-third cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
One teaspoon prepared mustard
One tablespoon prepared horseradish sauce
One teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon pepper
One-fourth teaspoon thyme
Two cups sifted flour
Two thirds cup shortening
Three tablespoons ice water (about)
Oven temperature: 425 degrees F.
Baking time: Fifteen minutes
Servings: Six

Combine the egg, celery, onion, pimiento and parsley in a bowl. Mix in the salad dressing; add the mustard, horseradish sauce and seasonings. Set aside. For the pastry: Cut the shortening into the sifted flour and salt in a mixing bowl until the mixture resembles coarse meal. Sprinkle with enough ice water to form a dough, mixing with a fork. Press into a ball; chill briefly. Cut into six equal parts. Roll lightly upon a floured board into squares (5 in.). Place one-sixth the filling in the centre of each square. Fold over the edges like an envelope; press lightly. Continue until all the squares are filled and folded. Place upon a baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven until the pastry is nicely browned. Serve hot with a vegetable and a salad.

New Road-Laying System Planned

EDMONTON—Highways Minister Gordon Taylor said Monday that in future a year will elapse between the time that stabilized gravel base is laid on new roads and the time a two-inch blacktop surfacing is added.

Mr. Taylor said the practice has been to lay the same year all three layers comprising main highways, a gravel bed, stabilized gravel base and blacktop surfacing.

The year's interval will allow time for discovery of failures or faults in the road before the blacktop is added.

Then, if we find frost boils or problems of drainage or soil composition, we can correct it without losing the hardtop surfacing," Mr. Taylor said.

The stabilized gravel base is usually nine to 15 inches thick.

Lac La Nonne Farmer Has Large Collection Of Native Bird Eggs

Archibald D. Henderson who has the most complete collection of North American birds' eggs says egg collecting is not so bad as some people think.

"There is a lot of prejudice against egg collecting," said the 74-year-old farmer, "but I'd like to point out there are few hobbies quite so harmless."

"People think that when we take a set of eggs we destroy a whole brood of young birds. This isn't quite correct because within two weeks the parent birds have built a new nest and laid more eggs. That applies to almost every bird."

8,000 IN EXHIBIT

Henderson, a farmer in the Lac La Nonne district, about 50 miles northwest of Edmonton has about 8,000 eggs in his collection including those of the now-extinct Passenger Pigeon and the Guadeloupe Petrel.

The oologist, technical name for an egg collector, has in his collection eggs of 930 species found in areas from southern California to Greenland. Henderson is credited with several "firsts" in oology and ornithology.

Henderson is credited with finding a Bonaparte Gull, the first since 1866 when one was discovered by a Hudson's Bay Company factor in the Arctic. The Alberta farmer's find was a nest in the Lac La Nonne area in 1926.

About 1923 he found several nests of Great Grey Owls. He supplied a nest, a set of eggs and mounted specimens to a large United States museum. The Alberta farmer said that as far as he knows the specimens he provided form the complete set in a museum anywhere in the world.

PATIENCE A FACTOR

Egg collecting calls for great patience.

"First you've got to find them," Henderson said, "and that's quite a trick itself."

Then identification must be made beyond the slightest doubt. Sometimes this involves waiting for hours until the birds return to their nest.

After the eggs are blown comes the tedious work of filling out data cards, cataloguing and indexing the eggs.

How About Alberta?

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I am engaged to a boy and love him very much but he has one fault. He does not always stick to the truth. I don't mean that he tells malicious lies but you are never quite sure whether what he says is so or not. He laughs when I get at him about it but it means a lot to me. Don't you agree?

W. G.

Answer:

One of the finest traits a man or woman can have is dependability and certainly one whose word cannot be relied upon is not to be depended upon. The trouble about such people is that, even when they tell the truth, people are not sure of what they say. Easy lies often turn out to be boomerangs and hurt the prevaricator more than they do others.

LOUISA.

This is my most embarrassing moment:

One hot sultry day last summer I had my kitchen door open while I was doing the dishes, when my little girl came running in with a hobby horse she had gotten from the next door neighbors. "How does it work, Mummy?" she asked. So I tried explaining to her, but she still couldn't understand. So I said, "This is the way," getting on the stick and riding around the kitchen—when I suddenly looked up, and there stood a stranger at the open kitchen door. Well, I dropped the stick and just stared. He left and never did come back!

ANNUAL HOME AND SCHOOL MEETING HAS HEAVY AGENDA

The 21st convention of the Federation of Alberta Home and School Associations provided many thrills to every newcomer. From the first bar of "O Canada" to the last notes of "God Save the Queen," one was listening to either an inspirational address or a logical discussion of problems that have bothered many communities.

Rev. E. J. White of First Presbyterian church gave an interesting outline of what he felt parents, teachers and ministers could do to give the children a knowledge of life's highest ideals. As a democracy it was necessary that pride in this way of life be the heritage of all. Teachers were a necessity to this end and should be given a fair compensation for providing this basic part of the democratic economy.

"Exceptional children, and our responsibility to them," as explained by Sister M. Rose was another highlight of the program. The humorous descriptions of classroom situations aroused much laughter in this appreciative audience of parents and teachers. At the request of the listeners, Sister Rose gave a brief summary of her own classes in Edmonton. Great patience, a clear understanding and a love for children make her a stirring example of the devoted teacher whose children will always remember her as the ideal for the teaching profession.

After a delicious closing banquet, Rev. E. J. Thompson helped to maintain the high standard of the addresses at the convention with his topic "Grasping Opportunities in the Community." A parent could do great service to everyone simply by staying home with the family for an evening. Too many meetings, clubs, etc., were destroying family ties as the children were left at home alone too much.

But the convention wasn't all talks—there were minutes to be read, resolutions to be passed, amended or discussed, committees to be appointed, officers to be elected, reports to be given, transportation and meals to be handled, along with innumerable smaller items. All of these made the convention delegates a tired but un-

Alberta Grain Sale Increased

Grain sales last fall and winter brought Alberta farmers about $10,000,000 more than in the same period of the previous year.

The department of industries and labor published figures for the seven months ending February 29.

Wheat sales were down from $118,000,000 to $113,800,000, but other grains earned farmers $42,750,000 as against just over $29,000,000 a year earlier.

Kohlruss-Antoniuk Nuptials Pledged

CLYDE—A very pretty spring wedding was solemnized in the Clyde United Church on Saturday, May 3rd, at 11 a.m., with Rev. J. W. Bainbridge officiating, when Helen Antoniuk, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Antoniuk of Clyde, became the bride of William George Kohlruss, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Kohlruss, also of Clyde. Given away by her father in the double ring ceremony, the bride was beautiful in a floor length lace gown with lily point sleeves. Her veil, of French lace was caught in place with a lace trimmed coronet embedded with orange blossoms. Her ornaments were a rhinestone necklace and earrings and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The three bridesmaids — Miss Rose Drozdowski, in a mauve floor length gown of taffeta, Miss Bernice Kohlruss, sister of the groom, in a pink taffeta gown and Miss Leona Antoniuk, cousin of the bride, in yellow taffeta—added a charming colorful touch to the service. They each carried a nosegay of spring flowers and wore headdresses to match their gowns.

The flower girl was little Rosanne Cherepanik, niece of the bride, who was dainty in a floor-length gown of white polka dot organdie, with an orange blossom headdress. She carried a nosegay of spring flowers.

The ring bearer was Douglas Kohlruss, nephew of the groom.

The groom's attendants were John Antoniuk, brother of the bride, John Kohlruss, brother of the groom, and Tony Peterson.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. B. Fricker. During the signing of the register, Mrs. John England sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, where friends gathered from many points to celebrate the happy occasion. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake flanked by large bouquets of red roses with sprays of fern.

Mrs. Antoniuk received her guests dressed in an afternoon frock of black jersey with a flowered jacket, her corsage was of salmon pink roses. The groom's mother also chose a two-piece afternoon dress of black with a flowered jacket and a similar corsage of salmon pink roses.

The happy young couple will make their home on the groom's farm in the Clyde district.

A tremendous crowd gathered in the Clyde Community Hall on Monday evening at the wedding dance to wish the young couple much happiness.

Last Respects Paid Old-Timer

CLYDE—A very large crowd of old-timers gathered at the Dungannon church on Monday afternoon, May 12th, at 2 p.m. to pay their last respects to one of Clyde's earliest settlers, when funeral services were held for Mr. William James Taylor, a highly respected citizen of this district.

Mr. Taylor was born in Wingham, Ontario, and came west to Alberta settling on his farm west of Clyde in 1903, where he lived until his death on Friday. He was two days past his 72nd birthday. In 1906 he married Miss Mercy Rogers. Mourning his loss are his loving wife, one daughter, Mrs. John McFadden of Edmonton, one son, Herbert of Edmonton; two grandchildren, John McFadden and Eric Taylor, both of Edmonton; and two brothers, James of Edmonton, and Case of Clyde.

Pallbearers were George McLachlan, Con Johnson, Roy Nickerson, George Bruder, Archie Ashby and L. Bruejel.

Services were conducted by Mr. Chris Moss of Edmonton, and interment was in the Dungannon cemetery, with Hunter's Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

The entire Clyde district mourns the loss of one of its finest citizens, with his cheerful disposition and friendly smile.

HOW THE CANCER CLINICS HELPED A FARMER

Joe was a farmer living in one of the far outlying districts of Alberta, a hundred miles from the nearest doctor. He had always been a strong, hardworking man, paying scant attention to the few minor illnesses that had come his way. Like most of the people of these districts, Joe was kindly, and a good neighbor. Many times he had extended a helping hand to a neighbor less fortunate than himself, and on this account, although he had not accumulated much of this world's goods, he was rich in the friendship and respect of the people among whom he lived.

There came a day when Joe was sick. He could no longer do a hard day's work, and no longer could he ignore the feeling of illness that he could not shake off. He knew at last the need to consult a doctor. When the news spread that Joe was ill and going to see the doctor, neighbors were glad to look after his farm and his few head of stock so that Joe and his wife could make the journey to the doctor.

Sent to Clinic

The doctor was grave after examining Joe. "You have a bowel obstruction Joe. In my opinion it is a tumor but I would like to have my diagnosis confirmed. I am going to send you to Edmonton to the Cancer Clinic there, for further examination."

Joe was alarmed. Cancer! And who was going to pay for all this? He was an honest man, and being so, had no desire to incur medical expense that he could not pay.

"I cannot pay for expensive examinations and treatment, Doctor. I have never contributed to the Cancer Society. Do what you can for me here and let me go home to the farm. If I have cancer, what is the good of expense that will be wasted anyway," he added with bitter hopelessness, "and besides I have never contributed to any cancer fund."

Early Cancer Curable

The doctor looked at Joe. "You are an intelligent man, Joe, and I am going to be frank with you. Most tumors are not malignant, and even early cancer is curable with prompt treatment. The Cancer Society does not pay for the diagnosis or treatment of cancer. Whenever treatment is authorized it is paid for by the Government of the Province of Alberta. The Government of the Province of Alberta has established a fund provided from the General Revenue of the Province to help people like yourself, and you have contributed to this fund through being a taxpayer. They have founded three Cancer Clinics, one in Edmonton, one in Calgary, and one in Lethbridge. They will pay for all treatment authorized by any of these Clinics.

"The establishment of the services authorized by these Clinics is this Government's way of trying to fulfil the needs of the people. The services of these Clinics are available to anyone. The purpose is to prevent unnecessary suffering and death by a common enemy cancer. You say to do what I can for you. Then I want you to have further examination by the specialists at the Edmonton Clinic to decide whether my diagnosis is correct and to establish whether or not cancer is present."

Joe was impressed but still doubtful. "If it doesn't turn out to be cancer Doctor then I am again faced with expense that I cannot meet."

Government Pays Examination

"Wrong again, Joe. Under special diagnostic services, the Provincial Government will pay for all examinations, X-rays, and hospitalization necessary to establish an accurate diagnosis, when authorized by the Clinic. This includes operating fees and hospital-not pay for X-rays, and was assured that the Government of the Province of Alberta would pay for them, and for all treatment authorized by the Clinic, as well as any further examinations and operation necessary to establish diagnosis, and hospitalization until the doctors knew with certainty exactly what was the matter with him. Relieved, Joe went for X-ray.

X-Ray Shows Tumor

Two days later on X-ray report forwarded to the Cancer Clinic by the radiologist indicated that Joe had a tumor in the bowel. He was operated on and the operation confirmed the suspicion that the tumor was early cancer of the bowel.

Because of the free service of the Cancer Clinic, this operation was performed immediately and not delayed until the patient felt he could afford hospitalization and surgery.

When Joe was able again to be up and around the hospital, he wandered around the corridors, meeting other patients and exchanging conversation. He soon learned that his was only one of many kinds of cancer, and that there were many kinds of treatment for the various types of cancer. He saw and visited a woman receiving radium treatments for deep-seated cancer, and a man whose skin-cancer had been removed at the expense of the Provincial Government.

He was told that to insure his future freedom from cancer, he must report back to the Cancer Clinic at least every six months, so that a careful check-up could be made, and that such subsequent examinations would be paid for by the Government of Alberta.

Joe's surgeon thought that probably X-ray treatment following the surgery would be of benefit. He requested authority for this procedure from the Cancer Clinics, which was gladly given, so Joe went for X-ray therapy. The radiologist again assured Joe that the Cancer Clinic had authorized the X-ray therapy, the Provincial Government would pay for this as well, and that all he had to worry about was relaxing and getting well.

Joe felt fine. He understood by now that out of all that had been done to make him well again, the only expense he had incurred was the balance of the hospital bill, with the few days deducted for making diagnosis which had been paid for by the Government.

Before Joe went home, he learned that all accounts for authorized diagnostic procedure, X-rays, operating room, the few days' hospitalization for diagnosis, anaesthetic, surgeon's fee and X-ray therapy had been passed for payment. He and his wife returned to their community with a deep and abiding gratitude for a life that had been saved. The knowledge that more lives could be saved and suffering relieved by the services of the Cancer Clinic of the Government of the Province of Alberta was a growing thing within them, and they knew they would educate the people of their community as to the means provided by their Government to meet the needs of the people.

Joe might be you—or me—or a neighbour. Let us tell all our friends of the services provided for by the Alberta Government: encourage our neighbors to use the Cancer Clinics when necessary. Cancer is curable when detected at an early date. Let us fight Cancer.
